

Ah! It's back-to-school week and this is how 3 Montrealers prepared for it
From light-up shoes, to getting back into that routine: school is back in session

Isaac Rainey, who's starting Grade 2, says he's not nervous at all about going back to school — only excited to see his friends and get back to learning. (Submitted)

Isaac Rainey is starting Grade 2 this week and says he's excited to wear his light-up shoes. (Submitted)

Isaac said he's not nervous at all about going back to school — only excited to see his friends and get back to learning. This year, he's starting Grade 2 at St. Patrick's Elementary in Pincourt, and said he's most excited to learn "how to do times," or multiplication.

He won't know who his teacher is until he gets to class, but he's hoping for Mrs. Griffin because he heard from friends that she's really nice. As for what he plans to wear, Isaac's school has a uniform — but he said he's excited to wear his light-up shoes.

When asked if he thinks he'll stay excited through the school year, Isaac said that "in five days, I get sick of it."

By Laura Marchand, CBC News
August 30, 2017

Please click here for full story